

We don't have to typeset the code we're executing. It can be hidden. And then we can access it later: This is a message from Python.

It is also possible to perform variable substitution or string interpolation. The earlier result could be recreated: $1 + 1 = 2$.